JUST ISSUED.

- 14 Browne (G. St. J. Orde) THE AFRICAN LABOURER, map, 8vo., cl., 1933 17s 6d

If the treatment of the workers by the privileged classes may be taken as a true criterion of the ethical standard attained by a community, the treatment of African labour affords examples reaching from slavery to international conventions governing the treatment of wage-labour. It is with problems of this kind of housing, diet, wages, mutual obligations of employer and employed, duration of contracts, recruiting, habituation and repatriation, and the disintegration of native social life, that Major Orde Browne deals in this book.

- 15 Bruce (Sir Charles) THE BROAD STONE of EMPIRE: Problems of Crown Colony Administration, with maps and a portrait, 2 vols, 8vo., cl., 1910 12s 6d

Burchell's work is of extreme value, as representing the country before its occupation by men of European race. His expedition undertaken at his own cost and convenience, occupied four years, during which period he travelled nearly five thousand miles, exclusive of smaller excursions into regions not previously explored. His journeys took him as far as Lattakoo on the Kuruman River. Besides general information respecting the country and its inhabitants, the Author collected above sixty thousand objects, and made more than 500 drawings of landscapes, portraits, costumes, zoological, botanical, and other objects. Burchell, according to Selater, "was a most skilful and well-trained zoologist and botanist and his observations are all accurate and methodical."

MADSIMU DSANGARA :
CHRONICLE OF SOUTH AFRICAN ROCK PAINTINGS,

By Leo Frobenius,

consisting of Thirty Hand-Coloured and One Hundred and Fourteen Plain Plates, with Comprehensive and Interesting Introduction, with many figures in the text, 2 vols, folio

Subscription price, £21

Price after publication, £26 5s

Rock paintings and engravings are to be found in South Africa in much greater abundance than in any other explored region of the earth, but although known for a considerable while they were treated as the ethnographical peculiarities of certain districts, and as the work of the insignificant bushman. Of recent years, however, scientists have been attracted to a closer study of them.

Professor Frobenius, by inspecting systematically several thousands of these paintings in widely scattered groups throughout the areas in which they occur, succeeded in recognizing the fundamental differences between the pictures, and in establishing their relationship to the ethnographic-historic forms of native cults. Not only has it been shown that the art of rock painting in Africa, dating at least from the period of the European examples, has survived till modern times, but that many variations in style occur. Periods of decadence alternate with periods of revival and innovation.

In most districts realism prevailed, but in Southern Rhodesia, where one animal pictures predominated, a powerful invasion appeared to divert indigenous art towards a harsh but uncannily expressive stylistic rendering of human beings and landscapes.

This present collection of South African rock paintings not only covers the widest area yet attempted in one publication, but has a claim to be a book of the oldest pictures in existence.

IT IS INTENDED TO ISSUE THIS WORK IF SUFFICIENT SUBSCRIPTIONS ARE FORTHCOMING TO MEET THE COST OF PRODUCTION.

- 337 Milner Papers, VOL. 2, edited by Cecil Headlam, with 8 plates, 8vo., cl., 1933 £1 10s

This second volume of Lord Milner's South African correspondence covers the period of the South African War. Localized as that conflict was, and far removed from England, it was yet one of the most critical episodes in the history of the Empire; how critical, perhaps, can only be realized by reading the revelations of inner history given in this volume. Quite as important as the soldiers' part was the role played by statesmen, and as High Commissioner none took a greater share in the work or did more to grapple with the intricate problems that arose than Lord Milner. His letters and dispatches show from the inside what vast military difficulties had to be contended with, what blunders were made, and how insuperable seemed the obstacles to bringing about a just peace that should be acceptable to both sides.

- 420 Terry (Edward) A VOYAGE to EAST-INDIA ; wherein some Things are taken Notice of in our Passage thither, map, portrait and 3 plates, thk. 12mo., contemporary calf, rebaked, 1655 £7

There is an account of a visit to Souldania, afterwards Table Bay, where the Author arrived on June 12, 1615. There is also an account of the natives whom Terry called "Coorees," and it is observed that "they lodge upon the earth in Hovels, so ill covered that they keep not out the weather . . . with other things, which make them most brutish." Terry also tells a rather amusing story about the capture of a Dutch ship.

- 437 Uys (Prof. C. J.) In the ERA of SHEPSTONE: being a Study of British Expansion in South Africa, 1842-77, with a folding map and 6 illustrations, 8vo., cl., Lovedale [1933] 15s 6d

Covers the general colonial and imperial policy of the 'sixties and 'seventies, and comprises the first complete account, drawn from original and hitherto untapped sources, of the annexation to the British Crown of the South African Republic in 1877. For the first time Shepstone is made to tell in his own words the whole inner history of this epoch-making event, which, in the light of its consequences, was the most important milestone in the history of South Africa in the 19th century.

Utilising entirely new material not published before, the Author clears up a large number of historical mysteries. The designs of France, Germany and Portugal on South-Eastern Africa are brought to light for the first time; the subtle diplomacy of the Zulu chief, Cetuywayo, in "playing-off" the Boers against the British is revealed; and President Burgers' ill-considered project of linking Delagoa Bay with the Transvaal, is brought forward as the "death-warrant" of this unfortunate "loquacious apostate President."

- 543 Harvey (Sir Paul) The Oxford Companion to English Literature, 8vo., cl., 1932 15s
This book aims at explaining allusions that involve a proper name, and giving the essential facts about literary works in the English language and their Authors. American literature is included, other literatures only in so far as they provide common allusion in English. There are plots of plays, novels, and poems of classic importance, and the principal characters in English literature are given.

Survey in General—Customs in Detail—Legal Aspects (Inter-relationship between Native and European Laws)—Glossary—Index.

In this book an attempt has been made to depict the people of a native tribe in their own environment; to explain their social system; their ideals of conduct and manner of life; their belief in the super-natural, and their fear of the occult and the infrahuman; their past history, so far as it may be conjectured; and, generally, all those influences which may be called their social heritage.

Fine long letter of extraordinary interest. Miss Kingsley describes her life in West Africa, various native customs; also "what Christianity and civilisation can do for a negro, the man who was brought up and educated at a College in the Isle of Man and who has not long returned to his native shore. So Resplendent on his return in store clothes, patent leather boots and high hat . . . was seen . . . dancing denude of all covering save a little touch of white paint with a human hand freshly hewn off its original owner, tied on to each of his wrists. . . . Human sacrifice and cannibalism occur to any extent" . . . &c.

 This book is the result of the Author's five years of personal study of the West Indian Negro in Jamaica, followed by eleven years of intensive research. It is not another attempt to find the so-called "Lost Tribes," but a serious effort to trace through diffusion, from the Nile to the Niger, the many Hebrewisms, real or apparent, which are to be found among distinctively Negro Tribes in West Africa in general, but particularly among the Ashanti.

This book lays out in a form easily understandable by the general reader information gathered during two expeditions conducted or participated in by the Authors. The first was the fishing survey of Lakes Victoria, Albert and Kioga of 1927-28. and the second the Cambridge expedition to the East African Lakes of 1930-31.

Some of the work, especially that on Lake Rudolf and on Crocodile Island, an isolated patch of volcanic land, studded with fascinating crater lakes, and inhabited by tame crocodiles, which had never before set eyes on man, comes very close to the old type of exploration of last century. On the other hand, the sections dealing with animal life keep in close contact with recent advances in zoological science. There are chapters on native boats, fishing and dances; but perhaps the most important matter treated is the development of the African lakes, the improvement of fisheries and farming the waters by fish introductions.

SUDAN.

- 971 Bovill (E. W.) CARAVANS of the OLD SAHARA: an Intro. to the History of the Western Sudan, 13 maps, 8vo., cl., 1933 £1 1s
In the commercial intercourse between the maritime peoples of Southern Europe and the Muhammadan States of North Africa trade with the Western Sudan was very important, but curiously little has been written concerning it. The Author traces the growth of this commerce, and gives a full account of the various expeditions that have given a knowledge of the interior of Africa to the outside world.

- 1108 Mair (L. P.) AN AFRICAN PEOPLE in the TWENTIETH CENTURY, with 8 plates, 8vo., cl. 10s 6d or 12s 6d
This book is based on a first-hand study of present-day conditions among the Baganda. It analyses the various European influences which have been at work among them—deliberate intervention by administrative authorities, missionary teaching, and the penetration of modern economic ideas and methods, in connection particularly with the introduction of cotton-growing. It examines the way in which African society has re-acted to these influences, and points out the respects in which it has failed to make a satisfactory readjustment.

- 1142 Donkin.—FOUR VERY RARE PAMPHLETS relating to GENERAL SIR RUFANE SHAW DONKIN'S ADMINISTRATION whilst ACTING-GOVERNOR of the CAPE of GOOD HOPE in 1820, bound in one vol, 8vo., calf, neatly rebacked £21

(1) DONKIN.—A Letter on the Government of the Cape of Good Hope, and on Certain Events which have occurred there of late Years, under the Administration of Lord Charles Somerset, addressed most respectfully to Earl Bathurst, 180 pp., 1827.

Donkin, in the course of his administration, reversed Lord Charles Somerset's frontier policy, and quarrelled with Henry Somerset, whom he superseded. This pamphlet throws considerable light on the disputes arising out of the settlement at Albany, and strongly criticises Lord Charles Somerset's methods of government, and the mismanagement of the revenues of Cape Colony.

THE AUTHOR'S OWN COPY, WITH HIS SIGNATURE ON TITLE AND A FEW SMALL CORRECTIONS IN THE TEXT.

(2) DONKIN.—A Letter to the Right Hon. Robert Wilmot Horton on some Statements bearing, according to Public Rumour, that Rt. Hon. Gentleman's Authority, 14 pp., 1827.

In this letter Donkin asserts that he is ready to appear at the Bar of the House of Commons, there to be examined as a preliminary measure, with regard to certain charges against Lord Charles Somerset.

ONLY KNOWN TO MENDELSSOHN THROUGH THE COPY IN THE BRITISH MUSEUM.

(3) DONKIN.—[Reply to a Letter from Lord Edward Somerset to Earl Bathurst], 8 pp., "PRIVATE AND NOT FOR PUBLICATION," 1827.

Lord Edward Somerset, in his letter, asks Earl Bathurst to make Donkin substantiate his charges against Lord Charles Somerset, or else to withdraw.

ENTIRELY UNKNOWN TO MENDELSSOHN.

(4) BIRD (Lieut.-Col. Christopher) Observations on the Letter addressed by Sir R. Donkin to Earl Bathurst, 32 pp. (pub. in), Cape Town, 1827.

This pamphlet contains an explanation and amplification of references to, and quotations from Col. Bird's official papers and correspondence referred to in Donkin's letter to Earl Bathurst.

MENDELSSOHN DID NOT HAVE A COPY, AND ONLY KNEW OF IT THROUGH THE ONE IN THE LIBRARY OF THE ROYAL EMPIRE SOCIETY.

WITH LONG NOTES ON SEVERAL PAGES (PROBABLY) IN DONKIN'S HANDWRITING.
